Science Societies

Mott Award Honors Top Graduate Students

June 4, 2024

Congratulations to the students who are recipients of this year's Gerald O. Mott Meritorious Graduate Student Award in Crop Science. This annual award recognizes top-notch graduate students pursuing advanced degrees in crop science disciplines.

Departments select students based on academic achievements, research and teaching contributions, leadership accomplishments, service activities, and personal qualifications. Multiple students from one school may be recognized as these students represent their departments.

The award is named for the first CSSA President, Gerald O. Mott, who trained 75 graduate students during his 45-year career at Purdue University and the University of Florida. Many of his students have become eminent forage scientists in the United States and Latin America. The award is offered by CSSA.

Emmanuel Nii Adjei Annan
Montana State University
<<

Annu Kumari
Auburn University
<<

Maria Carolina Escalona
North Carolina State University
<<

Arthur Siller
University of Massachusetts
>>

Chancelor B. Clark
Purdue University
>>

Arshdeep Singh
University of Nebraska–Lincoln
>>

Ruth Katherine Epstein
Cornell University
<<

Megan Baker
Utah State University
<<

Parul Mandal
Kansas State University
<<

Sarah Ann-Drumm Chu
Texas A&M University
>>

Alexander Scott Plucker
Tarleton State University
>>

Harrison Smith
University of Arkansas
>>

Gagandeep Kaur
Washington State University
<<

Payton Davis
Clemson University
<<

Kayla Marie Vittore
University of Illinois-Urbana-Champaign
<<

Sudip Kunwar
University of Florida
>>

Sophie Westbrook
Cornell University
>>

Radhika Rani
University of New Hampshire
>>

Text © . The authors. CC BY-NC-ND 4.0. Except where otherwise noted, images are subject to copyright. Any reuse without express permission from the copyright owner is prohibited.